INTERIOR DESIGN VERNISSAGE 2019
DAWSON COLLEGE

ctrl + alt + design

You can easily spot an Interior Design student in the Dawson halls: they are usually walking faster than everyone, are carrying too many things, and look like they have a million thoughts going through their head. And you wonder what goes on in there.

We create spaces from scratch, analyze them, and rework them. Every line we draw is a division, an opening, an enclosure, a space – a decision we know will eventually impact the lives of people. This is the restless mind of a designer.

This year's event is the first to partake in a sustainable initiative, one that reflects our future responsibilities in the industry. Thank you for your participation, and enjoy ID Vernissage 2019!

Au Bel-Air

The challenge with homelessness is not only the lack of a place to sleep, but the lack of - or inability to maintain - a place where you feel safe. Au Bel-Air has three goals: to support residents in their transition to permanent independent housing, to assist in long-term social integration and employment, and to offer basic human needs to the homeless. This is a place for those who do not know the meaning of dream to start again.

Centrée

Centrée provides young women living with breast cancer with a safe space where they can feel grounded and connected. Showcasing a warm, youthful and vibrant design, it inspires members to evolve their inner artist. The center's design goals revolve around an empathetic, healing approach, helping to promote creative autonomy by providing members with artistic outlets. The atmosphere is driven by the force of nature itself in combination the unique history of the site. The design combines mountainous landforms, replenishing water and a novel take on popular 1930's design aesthetics. The humble, community-driven legacy of the building has been preserved and reborn.

The Repertoire

The Repertoire is an emerging Montreal-based publishing house that covers topics related to design, technology, lifestyle and health. The goal was to provide The Repertoire with a space not only big enough to accommodate all of its employees, but one that promoted collaboration and creative thinking. The result is a fresh, clean and dynamic space that emphasizes the importance of joint collaboration; one that acts as the common denominator between all different employees and finally, one that helps them achieve their ultimate goal: prime content for a prime audience.

IntroVERT Hotel

IntroVERT is a boutique hotel designed to be a private reading paradise. It is a destination for young freelancers and tourists who seek intellectual relaxation amid the busy surroundings of Montreal. Located in the Parisian Laundry in the heart of St. Henry, IntroVERT plays on the contrast between ancient and new. The fragility of an introvert's inner world and the sublimity of ideas which are not to be shared with everyone: these are the main sources of inspiration for the interior. A spacious master-suite, a private room or a futuristic capsule-pod, the client may chose which option would be their reading home.
